

There is a shadow that follows me
My whole life tinted by the feeling
I would get up and try
But I can't stop the room from spinning

Bitter taste on my tongue
I can't place where it's from
As the head pain subsides
I remember where we lied
Bitter taste on my tongue
I can't place where it's from
As the head pain subsides
I remember you

I remember where we lied
And it starts to subside (I remember you)
I remember where we lied
And it starts to subside (I remember you)
I remember where we lied
And it starts to subside (I remember you)
I remember where we lied
And it starts to subside

Wish I could relive my life
Just to appreciate it more the second time around
Every era so precious
None of which could be crowned better than the rest
On the horizon I see
Holding onto belief
Hope there are new things to find
She said, "Take your time"
She said, "I wish you'd come over or at least come around"
Maybe one day I'll be over 'cause I'm finally found

Bitter taste on my tongue
I can't place where it's from
As the head pain subsides
I remember where we lied
Bitter taste on my tongue
I can't place where it's from
As the head pain subsides
I remember you

I remember where we lied
And it starts to subside (I remember you)
I remember where we lied
And it starts to subside (Oh, but I remember you)
I remember where we lied
And it starts to subside (I remember you)
I remember where we lied
And it starts to subside