

The Direction of Last Things

Intronaut

As the end of today leaves tomorrow behind we bury our heads in the sand we face our fears with a sigh you'd shoot an angel out of the sky to make sure it was real and what they said was wrong the time was too dark for our eyes to see