

In Between Tears

Irma Thomas

I loved you for what you were wrong or right
To win your heart and soul, I was prepared to fight (day and night)

Maybe my love for you was just a little too weak
To unlock the pain in your heart that you keep

But how can you throw away
The happy times we spent for years
Just because of things a woman might say
Just because of things a woman might say
In between tears

Why do you render me powerless to reveal
All the love that'd had for you and that I feel
I always loved that you were so extra-ordinary Gave you a love the poet would call out of the ordinary

So how can you throw away
The happy times we spent for years
Just because of things a woman might say
Just because of things a woman might say
In between tears

I gave you all the love I possess
Made my mind devotion and of tenderness
And just because of a little loving spite
You walked out on me
Now you know that it wasn't right
If you would only come back and have a little conversation
I know this time we'd have a lasting relation
Yes its hard-ya-babe when you g'won-an-ya breaking up
Ooo ooo ooo the pain is so good when you start to making up

So how could you throw away
The happy times we spent for years
Just because of things a woman might say
The things that woman might say
In between tears
In between tears
Oh yes they
They say 'em In between the tears
