

Whatever Happened to the Man of Tomorrow?

Iron Chic

We're part of the pulse that's keepin' the pace
A giant blue rock that's spinning through space
We'll be gone in the blink of an eye
And while we're here, I wanna live for something
I know the world is a terrible place
At least it seems that way, even on a good day
We'll build a new one with our own two hands
No one else is gonna do it for us

If you can't trust me
Then you can't trust anyone
But you can't trust me
So take that for what it's worth
Until we fall back down to Earth
Until we fall back down to Earth
We can try not to let it hurt
'Til we're in holes in the fucking dirt

We're caught in the wires in the walls that they made
I can't speak because there's nothin' to say
I can only whisper in my hands
When I get loose, I'm gonna scream about it

If you can't trust me
Then you can't trust anyone
But you can't trust me
So take that for what it's worth
Until we fall back down to Earth
Until we fall back down to Earth
We can try not to let it hurt
'Til we're in holes in the fucking dirt

It might not feel like we're moving
But we're falling into the Sun
We're just falling forever
This once, we all fall together
Falling in circles
In the light of our yellow Sun
Just falling forever
This time, we all fall together
We all fall together
We all fall together
We all fall together
We're falling into the sun
And we all fall together
We all fall together
We all fall together
In the light of our yellow Sun
We all fall together
We're just falling forever