

Winter Snow

Isaac Hayes

Tonight, I think of someone
Someone I haven't seen for years
And I thought the memories were washed away by my tears
But I ran across some old love letters
She'll find them long ago
'Cause they remind me of lips so warm
And a heart as cold as winter snow

Winter snow, winter snow

The first time I saw her
She was standing in the rain
And so little, so little did I know
That her love would bring me pain
Now I wonder who she's holding
I wonder, does the innocent fool really know?
And it's gonna take much more
Much more than true love
To melt away all that winter snow

Winter snow, winter snow
A heart as cold as winter snow
