Losing Me

Isak Danielson

I could be one word, it's sorry
To only believe you're playing games
I'm keeping you from hearing what they felt when we met
You're only playing games

You could tell me that I'm the only one
Your truth was broken before it all begun
You could ask me to tell you why you're sorry
But you'd be losing everything

I've been falling for lies
But I'll be alright
You'll never regret
How you treated me so badly
This could be why you are losing me
You're losing me

I was happier together
Than what I felt when we're apart
But this could never work with a light that grew so dark

You could tell me that I'm the only one
Your truth was broken before it all begun
You could ask me to tell you why you're sorry
Then you'd be losing everything

I've been falling for lies
But I'll be alright
You'll never regret
How you treated me so badly
This could be why

Baby, you and me were like a symphony
You hold my hand and we could grow up like an endless tree
And baby when rain comes
I'll only see the sun rushing past us when you're gone

I've been falling for lies
But I'll be alright
I'll be alright

I've been falling for lies
But I'll be alright
You'll never regret
How you treated me so badly
This could be why (this could be why)

I've been falling for lies
But I'll be alright
You'll never regret
How you treated me so badly
This could be why
You are losing me
