

Every night
When you close your eyes
I wonder what feelings grow deep in your mind
So many reasons, too much to say
They're floating around in mysterious ways

And I want you to be free
And I want you to be free

All of those places
Left in your dreams
All of these faces and these memories have forced your state of mind
And I know that you'll be running back along this jagged line
You're alone it hurts, but now you're coming home
You're coming home, you're coming home
Believe...

I know you're afraid
Of living in pain
But you'll be okay
We'll find out a way
Nobody to blame
You're here and you're safe
Whenever you need me
I'll always be there

And I want you to be free
And I want you to be free

All of those places
Left in your dreams
All of these faces and these memories have forced your state of
mind
And I know that you'll be running back along this jagged line
You're alone it hurts, but now you're coming home
Coming home, you're coming home

All of these faces and these memories have forced your state of
mind
And I know that you'll be running back along this jagged line
You're alone it hurts, but now you're coming
Now you're coming home
You're coming home, you're coming home
Believe...