Sprawled across the bedroom floor Dripping sweat from every pore Helplessly you reach for me But I'm already, I'm already gone

Don't you look beautiful?

Where's that smirk I've had to face Crawled away in sweet disgrace Now you say you need me so Don't tell me what I already know

Don't you look beautiful?
Don't you look beautiful
Begging me to finish what I start

Open mouth and aching fingers Bloodshot eyes so filled with fear If only you could see yourself from here

Don't you look beautiful?
Don't you look beautiful?
Don't you look beautiful
Begging me to finish what I start

Don't you look beautiful?
Isn't it beautiful
Begging me to finish what I start
Begging me to finish what I start
