NEURON, it responds to my mind
NEURON, it responds to my life
New run, a time for myself, once again
Get my nerves working again, just like the younger me, dive
My body's freestyle, still freestyle
My timeless soul, a whole new type
Such a deep-rooted tree, like deep-spring water
'Cause these neurons are the cells that awakened me

I'll tell you again
We'll never ever give up, forever
I'll say it again
We'll always be alive to move us
I'll tell you again

When the life I've lived is reflected on my face
I sneak a peek at the mirror, and what I see is not bad
I relaxed my shoulders, to be upright
Dozens of given motivation
At the intersection connecting each neuron
I carefully assemble the meaning and reason of life
The driving distance of a lightning delivery ball
Whether it be short or long is up to each's decision
I no longer embrace bombs
I've passed the ball on to my crew
While I play catchball with my look-alike son on weekends
Metro on the outskirts
The metronome next to my childhood piano
Matching it became my job, and the payout keeps pilin' up
Still on thin ice
Anxiety about the future lurks beneath the stage like a ghost
I scream, shout, then come back
To relax with a bland home-cooked meal
Make some white noise

I'll tell you again
We'll never ever give up, forever
I'll say it again
We'll always be alive to move us
I'll tell you again
We'll never ever give up, forever
I'll say it again
We'll always be alive to move us

J-hope X Yoonmirae, we on a new level
Love and peace, the two letters roaming in my heart
Throw ya peace in the sky, with two fingers
But no, okie doke, yo, dark winged baby T
Little Miss with a fiery smile (Oh, no)
J-hope done gave T the beat drop
Look at ya, mad like, how she get the best spot
'Cause you can learn to flow
But passion it can't be taught
