

No Place to Hide

Jace Everett

There's no place to hide down here
There's no place to hide down here
Went to the rock got on my knees
I heard the angels weep for me
No place to hide down here

Now where's my brothers keeper
Who holds the flaming sword?
The field had turned to crimson
Thought I hid it from the lord
But somewhere east of eden
His blood cried out from the ground
I hung my head in shame where I was found

There's no place to hide down here
No place to hide down here
Went to the rock got on my knees
I heard the angels weep for me
There's no place to hide down here

Now I'm a wandering stranger
A scar for a name
A mark so deep and black
My childrens children feel the shame
Oh merciful and gracious lord, when shall I be released?
Was blood that has condemned me
Only blood can set me free

There's no place to hide down here
No place to hide down here
Went to the rock got on my knees
I heard the angels weep for me
No place to hide down here

No, there's no place to hide down here

There's no place to hide down here
