Strong Enough

Jack Garratt

I can breathe the air and if I'm drowning
I can drink the water if I'm grounded
Bury me in darkness 'til I feel alive
And love me 'til I'm strong enough
Stand up proud and blossom in the sunlight
Grow until your fingers touch the night sky
London always seems to make me feel alive
It loves me 'til I'm strong enough

I-I-I-I-I...
Know my home is where my heart is
I-I-I-I-I...
I see you running into memories
Picking up the pieces that I'm putting down
But I won't go chasing down the old me
I could break the boundaries
Now I think I'm strong enough, enough, enough
I think I'm strong enough, enough, enough
Now I think I'm strong enough, enough, enough
I think I'm strong enough
I could break the boundaries
Now I think I'm strong enough

I can see the city scrape night sky
A shot that cuts the darkness for the fine line
Send me to the river, watch me come out dry
And love me if you're strong enough

I-I-I-I-I...
Know my home is where my heart is
I-I-I-I-I...
I see you running into memories
Picking up the pieces that I'm putting down
But I won't go chasing down the old me
I could break the boundaries
Now I think I'm strong enough
I see you running into memories
Picking up the pieces that I'm putting down
But I won't go chasing down the old me
I could break the boundaries
Now I think I'm strong enough, enough, enough
I think I'm strong enough, enough, enough
Now I think I'm strong enough, enough, enough
I think I'm strong enough
I could break the boundaries
Now I think I'm strong enough

I can take my shoes off when I walk the cobbled streets
Feel the city swell beneath my feet as it breathes
Take me to the river, watch me drown and come out dry
Lead me to the rooftop, push me off and watch me fly

I see you running into memories
Picking up the pieces that I'm putting down
But I won't go chasing down the old me
I could break the boundaries
Now I think I'm strong enough, enough, enough

I think I'm strong enough, enough, enough
Now I think I'm strong enough, enough, enough
I think I'm strong enough
I could break the boundaries
Now I think I'm strong enough
