

You Can Run

Jack Gray

I dream about you every night
In corduroy the hallway light is
The warmest yellow I've ever seen
You looked so alive
I picture you here by my side
I only wish there's more to life
Than fantasizing every time
I fall asleep

I'll say what you already know
I know it get's emotional
I'm ready for the overflow
It's too late to take it slow

It started with the way you looked at me
You know it's gonna happen eventually
Oh baby, you can run you can run if you want
But you're the only one you're the one that I want
I can see the stars have all aligned
And I just gotta let you know this time
That baby, you can run you can run if you want
But you're the only one you're the one that I want

What I would give to live inside a simulation you and I
Would walk the streets of paradise
Just getting high
You're the poison in my drink tonight
I skull what's left and lose my mind
Now I'm sinking into better times
I'm paralyzed

It started with the way you looked at me
You know it's gonna happen eventually
Oh baby, you can run you can run if you want
But you're the only one you're the one that I want
I can see the stars have all aligned
And I just gotta let you know this time
That baby, you can run you can run if you want
But you're the only one you're the one that I want...
