

Any Wonder

Jack Johnson

Is it any wonder, or can I believe in Another morning that I can't keep?
I sing all alone now, the birds are still sleeping
A passing storm off in the distance looks so peaceful

The morning comes and goes, I can't hold on to now
It's so hard to let go, maybe I don't know how
My shadow gets so long, and I get lost somehow
If you can hear me now

And is it any wonder, and is it really so hard to believe
That the light might come and go and the love might never leave
?
One by one now, I hear the birds waking
Another morning song that I can take with me

The morning comes and goes, I can't hold on to now
It's so hard to let go, well baby, I don't know how
My shadow gets so long, and I get lost somehow
It's so hard to let go, if you can hear me now

The shadows come and go, we can't hold on to now
It's so hard to let go, and baby, I don't know how
The light will come and go, we get so lost somehow
You can always come back home if you can hear me now