Between The Minds

Jack Savoretti

I've never been the one to shout because I listen
I don't like to raise my voice
Maybe I should learn to lose my inhibitions and let my feelings make some noise
You don't know what I'm going through
When silence is all I give to you

So hear me, if you're out there
Take these words and try to understand
That I want you, and I need you, to take the hand of a quiet ma n

I love the way you hear the words unspoken
It's like you read between the minds
You know before the silence has been broken
Well, at least most of the time
But I don't know what you're going through
It must be something I didn't say to you

So hear me, if you're out there
Take these words and try to understand
That I want you, and I need you, to take the hand of a quiet ma
n
Of a quiet man

So hear me, if you're out there
Take these words and try to understand
That I want you, and I need you, to take the hand of a quiet ma
n
Of a quiet man
Of a quiet man
Of a quiet man
