

Chicago 1945

Michael Jackson

Sirens
Chicago, Chicago, Chicago!
Chicago

It was Chicago 1945
Cubs lost that year, but Al Capone was found alive
They searched forty days, in the suburbs of the night
But they found him, alive
Alive
Young Joe DiMaggio hit his first home run
People gathered 'round, basking in the sun
Three girls disappeared, on a cold windy night

Never to be found again, never to be found again, so

Who solved that mystery late Chicago night?
You can't hide the truth, so won't you turn on the light?
Who solved that mystery late Chicago night?
Never to be found again, never to be found again
Found again, never to be found again
Found again (Found again)

It was so windy, joy had to be in the air (Hee hee)
People gather 'round to see the world's fair
It was so happy, but sad in the truth
So much is goin' on
They didn't know the girls were missing, missing
You can't choose what they say, and nobody can (Hee hee)
Because undercover of the Chicago Tribune, feature the world's fair
They didn't bother, you know it is the truth (Hoo hoo)

Never to be found again, never to be found again, so

Who solved that mystery late Chicago night?
You can't hide the truth, so won't you turn on the light?
Who solved that mystery late Chicago night?
Never to be found again, never to be found again
Be found again, never to be found again

Found again (Found again, hoo hoo!)
Never to be found again (Hoo hoo, Found again)
You can't hide anything (Hee hee, found again)
Chicago, we love you! (Hee hee, found again)
You can't find anything (Found again)
Chicago, ooh-ooh, baby (Found again)
Chicago, chicago (Found again)
