

Heavy Love

Jacob Banks

As we see the back of June
Still waiting for our bloom
Anything will do

Oh forever's on the loose
Another war is on the news
Still faking our truce

We spent all our happy youth
Trying to find our common truth
Now every moon is blue

Time has brought its guillotine
We are standing on the brink
Can you fake another grin?

My hand won't stop shaking
My voice stop breaking
Cause I know that our heavy love won't do
After so much forgiving
We've seen every season
Oh I know our heavy love won't do
Heavy love won't do
Oh heavy love won't do
It won't do

Even in our dancing shoes
Father time won't bend his rules
Won't drink away the blues

On that Sunday afternoon
Where we spent our last excuse
No memories left to bruise

We are melting into two
Turn to someone you once knew
Back into the queue

Life inside the silver screen
In our blacked out limousine
Can you fake another grin?

Cause my hand won't stop shaking
Voice stop breaking
Cause I know that our heavy love won't do
After so much forgiving
We've seen every season
Oh I know our heavy love won't do
Heavy love won't do
Oh our heavy love won't do
It won't do
It won't do
It won't do
Heavy won't do
It won't do
