

What's a Monday

Jae Stephens

I'm on my last drink, I said that last drink, I said that last week

Don't put it past me to go drop a dime, on having a good time

I might be a little late, give me fifteen

Took me a little while to squeeze into those jeans

They said pain is beauty now I know what they mean

Couldn't be the baddest if I had it easy

Scared to die but only really livin' for the weekend

Sittin' in traffic, standing in line

Waiting for your chance to finally have a good time, but

What's a life that starts on Friday night and ends Sunday evening?

Oh, I hate a long line, I'ma go and grab the motherfucker like it's mine

Yeah, bitch, what's a Monday? Blessed like everyday is Sunday

Can't complain as long as I'm paid up, everyday I wake is a good day

That's it, that's all you really need

Better count your blessings seven days a week, like

What's a little ol' Monday? We ain't scare of no Mondays, yeah, yeah

I got one life, can't live it in one night, it's too big it ain't gon' fit, I can't speed up the timeline

Be mad if you wanna I'ma have myself a good time

Sweating like a sauna, I would never know to stay dry

I can't lose cause' I only compete with me, myself and I

We gettin' better every week

No, I don't feel what's on the brink

Take it as it comes and just breathe while you're

Scared to die but only really livin' for the weekend

Waiting for your chance to finally have a good time, but

What's a life that starts on Friday night and ends Sunday evening?

Oh, I hate a long line, I'ma go and grab the motherfucker like it's mine

Yeah, bitch, what's a Monday? Blessed like everyday is Sunday

Can't complain as long as I'm paid up, everyday I wake is a good day

That's it, that's all you really need

Better count your blessings seven days a week, like

What's a little ol' Monday? We ain't scare of no Mondays, yeah, yeah
