

Tell me one good reason why I should try
Continuing to fight it
Running in circles 'round and 'round and 'round
Hoping I'll defy it
Tell me one good reason why I should try
Thinking that I can hide it
When all I do is push and pull, full reverse
Hoping it don't hurt this time

But how can I resist when a force like this pulls me under?
Why should I pretend that gravity will suddenly surrender?
It's just human nature
It's just human nature
It's just human nature

Can't convince me that I'm out of touch
When I'm the one that says too much though you don't hear me
We're tethered like magnets
Like a kite to your wrist, won't you pull me down here?
Then tell me one good reason why
The reprieve for heart and mind isn't near us
I hear your voice from the balcony
Our song rushes back to me
It's never been more clear

But how can I resist when a force like this pulls me under?
Why should I pretend that gravity will suddenly surrender?
It's just human nature
It's just human nature
It's just human nature

How can I resist when a force like this pulls me under?
Why should I pretend that gravity will send me surrender?
It's just human nature
It's just human nature
Tell me, how can I resist?
It's just human nature
It's just human nature
Tell me, how can I resist?
It's just human nature
It's just human nature
