

Alright

James Arthur

Empty days and nights so long
Where to go to now she's gone?
Your world had hope but now it's clear
Love can also bring you fear
She's the first but not the last
But your eyes only see the past
You never wanted it to crash
But sometimes good things never last

But you can't hear me when i tell you it's ok
Cause when your heart turns black it's the colours in your day

And it's alright to hurt inside 'cos you're still falling through the hole she left behind
Yes it's alright to hurt inside 'cos you're still falling, only time will make it right

She had it all she drank your tears
The double sided coin was hers
You took a gamble on those eyes
You kissed those lips that told you lies
And now it's time for her to break
Another heart a love that's fake
You must forgive her right away
She's only trying to find her place

But you can't hear me when i tell you it's ok
Cause when your heart turns black it's the colours in your day

And it's alright to hurt inside 'cos you're still falling and only time will make it right
Oooh

And every soul in life gets hurt
There's a million broken hearts falling back to earth
I know it's hard for you to see but you've got to feel the pain to heal

And it's alright to hurt inside 'cos you're still falling through the hole she left behind
Yes it's alright to hurt inside 'cos you're still falling, only time will make it right
