Darkness bleeding in, the sun is getting low No diamonds in the trees, only leaves of gold And our long days in the heat haze start to fade

We can hide under sheets, under heavy covers So deep as the night draws in And we'll be slow honey lovers 'til the clocks go forward again Again, again, again yeah

When there's no blue above, gonna keep my summer clothes 'Cause there's still a field of green underneath the falling sn ow

When our hands grow so cold and hard to hold

We can hide under sheets, under heavy covers So deep as the night draws in And we'll be slow honey lovers 'til the clocks go forward again Again, again, again yeah

Stay warm, close your eyes Let time fly Stay close, stay right here Nothing to fear

And we'll hide under sheets, under heavy covers So deep as the night draws in And we'll be slow honey lovers 'til the clocks go forward again Again, again, again yeah, And again