

Slow Heart Attack

James Morrison

I'm losing my high
I didn't wanna come down
It hits me different now
Second time around
It's still you and I
I'm still tryna chase something
Keeps giving me nothing, nothing

When you're blinded by the high
You always think that you can fly
Until you hit the ground
Don't you know, don't you know

You only ever know when you're looking back
You were in the middle of a
Slow heart attack
You don't feel the pain till it's all you have
You were in the middle of a
Slow heart attack

I'm losing my high
Never felt so low, used to fill up my soul
Now it's just burning holes
It's still you and I
Instead of making it better
We're barely holding it together, together

When you're blinded by the high
You always think that you can fly
Until you hit the ground
Don't you know, don't you know

You only ever know when you're looking back
You were in the middle of a
Slow heart attack
You don't feel the pain till it's all you have
You were in the middle of a
Slow heart attack

And even though you're only just a step away
It's like you move a little further everyday
Losing my high
And every time I take it just a little more
It does a little less than it did before
Losing my high

You only ever know when you're looking back
You were in the middle of a
Slow heart attack
You don't feel the pain till it's all you have
You were in the middle of a
Slow heart attack
You were in the middle of a
Slow heart attack
You were in the middle of a
Slow heart attack
You were in the middle of a
Slow heart attack
Heart attack