You don't often find this, this kind of love
People thought I, I made it up
But what we felt was, was made for us
It was all or nothing, but not enough

I still drive by that old house of ours
With the big red brick and the black garage
We'd stay up all night just to right our wrongs

When the walls come tumbling down
All that's left is everything we burned to the ground
Hold your breath because the air feels heavier now
Now that I'm gone, you've never felt so alone
I know you wonder if we both can figure this out
That this was the kind of love they were talking about
Together we were magic 'til it ran out
This was as good as it gets
Baby, we did our best but

Complicated, both mistaken
I guess that love is overrated
I know you need me, was lost in feelings
But loving you was, was never easy
How did this love turn into hate? Why?
Does everything good turn into pain? I
I try to let go, try to be brave, but
But what if it's us, what if it's fate?

I still drive by that old house of ours
With the big red brick and the black garage
And I wonder if the people that live there now
Are happier than we were somehow

When the walls come tumbling down
All that's left is everything we burned to the ground
Hold your breath because the air feels heavier now
Now that I'm gone, you've never felt so alone
I know you wonder if we both can figure this out
That this was the kind of love they were talking about
Together we were magic 'til it ran out
This was as good as it gets
Oh baby, we did our best

Oh baby, we did our best
Oh baby, we did our best
Oh baby, we did our best
Oh baby, we did our
Oh baby, we did our
Oh baby, we did our best
Oh baby, we did our best
Oh baby, we did our best
Oh baby, we did our
Oh baby, we did our
Oh baby, we did

Got those unopened letters
Just sitting there

I wonder what those words meant at the time you wrote them
I'm kind of glad that it's done
Oh babe, we had a good run
Now I'm back to day one
