

Best Life

Janet Devlin

They say it's God's plan
But it feels like a joke
When nothing's broken
But you've never been so broke
They say a phoenix should rise
From the smoke
But the flames don't come
No matter how much you stoke

But you can find joy in the darkest times
Just gotta remember to turn on the lights

'Cause life's worth living if you're living it
A song's worth singing if you're singing it
You live your best life when you're living true
Only regret what you didn't do

When you're sleeping
For temporary death
Not telling no-one
For fear of wasting breath
And you're feeling
You're not made for this earth
Well I can promise
One day you'll know your worth

'Cause you can find joy in the darkest times
Just gotta remember to turn on the lights

A life's worth living if you're living it
A song's worth singing if you're singing it
You live your best life when you're living true
Only regret what you didn't do

A life's worth living if you're living it
A song's worth singing if you're singing it
You live your best life when you're living true
Only regret what you didn't do

It's always dark before the dawn
You are right where you belong
I know you're trying to hold on
But if you're fighting you are strong

It's always dark before the dawn
You are right where you belong
I know you're trying to hold on
But if you're fighting you are strong

It's always dark before the dawn
You are right where you belong

Life's worth living if you're living it
A song's worth singing if you're singing it
You live your best life when you're living true
Only regret what you didn't do

Life's worth living if you're living it
A song's worth singing if you're singing it
You live your best life when you're living true
Only regret what you didn't do
Only regret what you didn't do
