

Burden

Janet Devlin

The cycle starts again
Built a wall won't let you in
I stopped picking up my phone
But I don't wanna be alone, no
The cycle starts again

I'll be running hot and cold
I'll push you away but I won't let go of you
A little over zealous but
Get jealous when you're not sleeping here

I burdened you with all of me
In the hope I that would make you leave
Every time that I be myself
They run and hide and send for help
The trick is not to let them in
Only just a little bit
I burdened you with all of me
I still hoped you wouldn't leave

Please don't say that it's the end
I'll be broken while you bend
We can be bipolar love
I promise I won't give you up
Just don't say that it's the end

I'll be running hot and cold
I'll push you away but I won't let go of you
A little over zealous but
Get jealous when you're not sleeping here

I burdened you with all of me
In the hope I that would make you leave
Every time that I be myself
They run and hide and send for help
The trick is not to let them in
Only just a little bit
I burdened you with all of me
I still hoped you wouldn't leave

I'll keep running hot and cold
I'll push you away but I can't let go of you
Always over zealous
Still get jealous
I burdened you with all of me

I burdened you with all of me
In the hope I that would make you leave
Every time that I'd be myself
They run and hide and send for help
The trick is not to let them in
Only just a little bit
I burdened you with all of me
I still hoped you wouldn't leave
I still hoped you wouldn't leave
I still hoped you wouldn't leave