

Kindness

Jared Anderson

I forget the reason why You let me in
Sat me by Your richest friends, wisdom and love

I forget the reason why You pulled me close
Clothed me in Your righteousness and called me Your own

There must be more, but I can't get past Your kindness
There must be more, but I can't get past Your kindness

I forget where every tear I've cried is kept
You're teaching me the dancing steps
Into Your arms, into Your arms

There must be more, but I can't get past Your kindness
There must be more, but I can't get past Your kindness

'Cause when I'm in Your presence
Your heart awakens all my senses
I can't believe this love so endless beckons me

There must be more, but I can't get past Your kindness
There must be more, but I can't get past Your kindness

Your kindness
(Oh, I) Can't get past Your kindness
