

I see the lie, I see the clockwork of my immorality
I see the lie, I see a beauty in violence
A restless divide and it's gripping me

I see the lie, I see the clockwork of my immorality
I see the lie, I see a beauty in violence
A restless divide and it's gripping me

Peel me back
Pull away the mask and see the fangs of society
Behold my gaping mouth, know the taste of such desperate need
Lay me down to lay inside desire
To descend and to digress
Our ambitions fade into a state of dying rest
Defined by distance our indifference takes the shape of death
Twin silhouettes in the moonlight's death
We'll sleep forever

Bring me back, give me eyes that see
We'll be as one when the world's undone
Bring me back, to behold the shame and say the name
We'll be reborn, no, we'll shed the scorn

Bring me back, give me eyes that see
We'll be as one when the world's undone
Bring me back, to behold the shame and say the name
We'll be reborn, we'll shed the scorn

I see the lie, I see the clockwork of my immorality
I see the lie, I see a beauty in violence
A restless divide and it's gripping me

I see the lie, I see the clockwork of my immorality
I see the lie, I see a beauty in violence
A restless divide and it's gripping me