

Whose Rearview

Jason Aldean

Heard I'm the bad guy
Heard I'm the reason
I didn't try hard enough to work it out
Yeah, all your friends are talkin' 'bout how this breakup
Ain't breakin' even Aw, but they don't know they're just hangin' 'round one side of this two-story town

Ooh-ooh-ooh
The truth gets covered up by whiskey smoke and clouds of leavin' dust

Don't you know that we both saw taillights
Drivin' off our separate ways
You in that Ford, me in my Chevrolet
Don't you know what we both said that night
Some love you win, some love you lose
You were blamin' me and I was blamin' you
Whose goodbye broke whose heart in two
That all depends on whose rearview you're lookin' through

Whose rearview, whose rearview

This stretch of blacktop
Blurs out the good times
Baby, don't forget about how we weren't always where we are right now
We both got memories to burn through
So, don't even try to paint it like the only hurtin' one is you, yeah

Don't you know that we both saw taillights
Drivin' off our separate ways
You in that Ford, me in my Chevrolet
Don't you know what we both said that night
Some love you win, some love you lose
You were blamin' me and I was blamin' you
Whose goodbye broke whose heart in two
That all depends on whose rearview you're lookin' through

Whose rearview

Ooh-ooh-ooh
Whose rearview
The truth gets covered up (whose rearview) by whiskey smoke and clouds of leavin' dust

Don't you know that we both saw taillights
Drivin' off our separate ways
You in that Ford, me in my Chevrolet
Don't you know what we both said that night
Some love you win, some love you lose
You were blamin' me and I was blamin' you
Whose goodbye broke whose heart in two
That all depends on whose rearview you're lookin' through

Whose rearview, whose rearview
