

Black and White

Jason Chen

Is it the flames that we go,
I'm burning up, you're so cold,
Like a mass of a flame, I'm falling right back into your arms.
When I say yes, you say no,
When I say stop, you say go,
But you got a way to keep me coming back for more.

Girl, we're like oil and water
And that thing can keep us apart.
But you, you attract me,
Just like a magnet pulling my heart.

It's like, girl, this is attract,
And I can't take it back.
And even though I know it's wrong,
It feels so right.

Like the darkness alike,
I need you by my side,
We go together like
Black and white.

No more dream and wake up,
Is attraction or not?
I can't explain what keeps me crawling back to you.
Is it hello or goodbye, is it the truth or a lie?
Girl, in a way, you keep me coming back for more.

Girl, we're like oil and water
And that thing can keep us apart.
But you, you attract me,
Just like a magnet pulling my heart.

It's like, girl, this is attract,
And I can't take it back.
And even though I know it's wrong,
It feels so right.

Like the darkness alike,
I need you by my side,
We go together like
Black and white.

You're so close to my heart, girl,
You know me so well,
You take, take my hand girl,
Throw me out of my shell.
You're so close to my heart, girl,
You know me so well,
You take, take my hand girl,
Throw me out of my shell.

It's like, girl, this is attract,
And I can't take it back.
And even though I know it's wrong,
It feels so right.

Like the darkness alike,
I need you by my side,
We go together like
Black and white.
