

Before It All Ends

Jason Mraz

It hasn't rained in a hundred days
But the waters still rising in other ways
The world may soon be going down the drain
I just want more time with my baby before it all ends
It's getting hot, it was hotter today
I hope tomorrow we can still go out and play
The world may soon be going up in flames
I just want more time with my baby before it all ends

Before it all ends
Because a meteor came crashing on our beds
Before it all ends
Because our president threw nuclear warheads
Before it all ends
Because the internet done swallowed all my friends
I just want more time with my baby before it all ends

Of all that's been not much remains
The only constant thing is change
The world may soon be going down the commode
I just want more time with my baby before we explode

Before it all ends
Because the earth is flat and we all went over the edge
Before it all ends
Because we all got anal probed by aliens
Before it all ends
Because everyone thought dollars made more sense
I just want more time with my baby before it all ends
I just want more time with my baby before it all ends
This is not a joke
I just want more time with my baby before it all ends
