

Rain

Jason Reeves

On the streets of my memory
Where we learned how to break
There's a vision of us I
Never wanna let it fade away

But it's more like a Van Gogh
In a house burning down
And the fighters are late
Pouring water over ashes on the ground

Cause our love was a picture of us on a perfect day
Drawn in chalk on an old cracked sidewalk right before the rain
And with every drop more of our beauty was erased
Our love was a sunrise shining right before the rain
The rain, the rain
Now blue skies won't ever be the same

When I walk down that block it's like
I can still see the shape
Of our fingers entwined beneath the Power lines that imitate the smile on your face

And you're still in that spring dress
Like a wildflower dream
And the turquoise horizon's
Gonna take your heart away from me

Cause our love was a picture of us on a perfect day
Drawn in chalk on an old cracked sidewalk right before the rain
And with every drop more of our beauty was erased
Our love was a sunrise shining right before the rain
The rain, the rain
Now blue skies won't ever be the same

Our love was a picture of us on a perfect day
Drawn in chalk on an old cracked sidewalk right before the rain
And with every drop more of our beauty was erased
Our love was a sunrise shining right before the rain
The rain, the rain
Now blue skies won't ever be the same
