

Your Skin Instead

Jason Reeves

I know I call you too much but I am missing your touch

Yeah

And now this bed feels so new

Here on the other side of the world and loving you

So they say I'm pulling my weight and

Yeah

I've been feeling great lately but babe I just can't wait anymore

To feel your perfect hair upon my lonely pillowcase once again

You can call it anything you wanna

Mr. positive but I'm lonely as hell

Yeah

Everybody walking through the city sidewalks so busy

It's her that knows me so well so I need your face at my door

I said I need your footprints on the floor

Yeah

Yeah

You know that I need your warmth here in my bed

Because your voice is pretty baby

But I'd rather have your pretty skin instead

So the sky is falling like rain and making designs on my windowpane

Yeah

Yeah

But lines are just a big waste

'Cause even the skies gentle lines couldn't portray your grace

Grace

And

Yeah

Yeah

But

Oh

The night life

Yeah

Girls under street lights

I wish wouldn't remind me of you

Yeah

You

Yeah

You

'Cause I need your face at my door

Yeah

I need your footprints on the floor

Oh

Oh

Girl

And I

I need your warmth here in my bed

'Cause your voice is pretty baby

But I'd rather have your pretty skin instead

Pretty skin instead
