May Day

Jason Webley

you here that sound the rain is coming down it says there's a ripeness setting in the children spin around 'til they crash into the ground singing welcome home forever once again and when you hear that spirits call there ain't no use to fight and if you want to eat tomorrow you better sow your seed tonight you feel that fire lift your body higher an old old dance is growing here better kiss me soon while the blossoms are in bloom or you might just have to wait another year you feel that beat come on move your feet old man winter's dead and gone ther'll be wiggling of the toes there'll be taking off of clothes there'll be silly naked dancing on the lawn
