

When

Javier Colon

It's that grey part of morning that sinks in & catches me
It pins & holds me like a broken wing
I can feel the weight of it pulling me down
Wake me up, take me out, get me out of this moment
'Cause I can't see the other side

When will my heart beat again
And when will the rain ever end
When will I start getting over
This feeling that I'll never live,
Never live without you, without you, without you, without you, without...

I remember you told me, if you're goin through Hell you gotta keep goin through
But I swear that I'm only trying to get back to that place before you
I was alive, I could fight, I wouldn't cry for most anything
Now I wait for the pain to subside...

When will my heart beat again
And when will the rain ever end
When will I start getting over
This feeling that I'll never live,
Never live without you, without you, without you, without you,
without you, without you, without...
Without you, without you, without you, without you, without you
, Ohhh

I cannot breathe, I cannot fight
I'd do anything just to have one more night,
The way that it was, the way that we were
All of this pain, you are the cure
Without you, without you, without you, without you, without you
, Ohhh

Without you, without you, Ohhh...
