

Broken Nose

Jay-Jay Johanson

Her nose is bleeding And just one arm away He promises it won't happen again

And she believes him Makes her feel guilty For talking to another man

Her throat is aching Black finger prints around her neck Are hidden by a scarf

She can not hate him Part of her knows she has To leave before it goes too far

Broken nose, broken heart The healing process doesn't know where to start Broken nose, broken heart Until death do us apart

It's when he's drinking Just can't control himself Gets violent every single time

Guess what she's thinking It could be worse And when he's sober he's so very fine

Broken nose, broken heart The healing process doesn't know where
to start Broken nose, broken heart Until death do us apart

The neighbours know it If she won't do it they all Threaten her to call the cops

Finally in peace This guy won't touch me now Under this stone it has stopped

Broken nose, broken heart The healing process doesn't know where
to start Broken nose, broken heart Until death do us apart

Broken heart The healing process doesn't know where to start Broken nose, broken heart Until death do us apart
