

Broken

Jay Webb

(Tell me, have you ever been broken?)

I ain't no stranger to the feeling
Of heartbreak, hard liquor, pain and healing
And if you saw the bottom of the bottom, no, you wouldn't believe it
And I done calloused up my hands picking up these pieces

So tell me, have you ever been broken?
Ever been hopeless, ever been pissed off at this life?
Ever been damaged, ever been stranded
Ever ran out of tears to cry?
I'm praying on my knees
Lord, I can't get no sleep
So tell me, have you ever been broken?

I need a long drive, I need a cold one
Got too much pressure on my mind, I need to roll one
I'm from them bald tires, I'm from them dirt floors
I'm from that AC in the window that don't work no more
So before I fold this hand I'm holding

Won't you tell me, have you ever been broken?
Ever been hopeless, ever been pissed off at this life?
Ever been damaged, ever been stranded
Ever ran out of tears to cry?
I'm praying on my knees
Lord, I can't get no sleep
So tell me, have you ever been broken?

I feel so empty, hollow and down
Inside this whiskey bottle I drown
I wonder if I'll make it out, yeah
I wonder if I'll make it out

So tell me, have you ever been broken?
Ever been hopeless, ever been pissed off at this life?
Ever been damaged, ever been stranded
Ever ran out of tears to cry?
I'm praying on my knees
Lord, I can't get no sleep
So tell me, have you ever been broken?
