

Winter Forever

Jazmin Bean

Winter forever
Winter forever

To live in a world where I'd never met you
Oh my God
What a beautiful world that would be to live in
Oh my God
No echoing screams following me until the end of time
Oh my God
The plants and the trees and the birds were singing it all would be just fine

And I think I forgive you
But I still hope you burn in that special part of hell...

Winter forever, ice-cold, harsh-toned
Death in the weather when you touch me
When I'm around you I feel far from home
When we're together, life has no goal

Winter forever
Winter forever

When your gone this house feels like a home
It's nice to forget you
You corrupted my dreams, broke my bones
Wonder why I met you
Still hear your Wrath when I am alone
It's hard to forget you
I hope you choke in the nicest tone
We'll chose both to let you

And I think I forgive you
But I still hope you burn in that special part of hell...

Winter forever, ice-cold, harsh-toned
Death in the weather when you touch me
When I'm around you I feel far from home
When we're together, life has no goal

Winter forever
Winter forever

Winter forever, ice-cold, harsh-toned
Death in the weather when you touch me
When I'm around you I feel far from home
When we're together, life has no goal

Winter forever
Winter forever
Winter forever
Winter forever
