

A Little Greener

Jeangu Macrooy

Forever is a long time, my dear
I guess we made it so far, hmm
Sometimes it's hard to leave
You'd want to spend your day's with me

Honey, I ain't no saint
I'm just a human of flesh and blood
In everything I do, I still choose you

Love will bloom like a flower in the garden
If you water it, yeah
Love won't bloom like a flower in the garden
If you don't cherish it, no
The grass will always look a little greener
The grass will always look a little greener
The grass will always look a little greener
The grass will always look a little greener
On the other side

You ain't no angel, my dear
I guess we made it so far, ooh
You make the rules up as you go
And I trust that you know

Honey, I ain't no saint
I'm just a human of flesh and blood
In everything I do, I still choose you

Love will bloom like a flower in the garden
If you water it, yeah
Love won't bloom like a flower in the garden
If you don't cherish it, no
The grass will always look a little greener
The grass will always look a little greener
The grass will always look a little greener
The grass will always look a little greener
On the other side

You think you know you're my babe
I think I love you, my babe
I hear you whenever you say
"Mind and body don't play"
Take it anyway you want to Say it every day, "I want you"
All the games you play, no need to Different from what I used to do
See many times all my projections
Affected the things I was trying to say
Suspected my way of selecting just
Ended up making me someone's prey
Behind it all heart and feel
We gonna [?] and still
We continue to grow and heal

Love will bloom like a flower in the garden
If you water it, yeah
Love won't bloom like a flower in the garden

If you don't cherish it, no
The grass will always look a little greener
The grass will always look a little greener
The grass will always look a little greener
The grass will always look a little greener
On the other side
