

Wish You Well

Jeff Bernat

Wish I could call right now
Wish I could tell you everything I need, right now
If I could take away my faults
And never do you wrong again
Again

If I could call back I wouldn't hesitate
But I know by now it's a little bit too late
I never thought it was something I'd feel
It's hard to believe it's real

Where do we go now from here?
Would it be different if you were more near
I should've done a little bit more
To stop you walking out of that door
Oh, but it's over now
All I can do is wish you well

Wish you could call right now
Wish you could get out of my damn head right now
I'm trying to heal us of the thoughts and never feel lost again
Never again

So where do we go now from here?
Would it be different if you were more near
I should've done a little bit more
To stop you walking out of that door
Oh, but it's over now
All I can do is wish you well

Where do we go now from here?
Would it be different if you were more near
I should've done a little bit more
To stop you walking out of that door
Oh, but it's over now
All I can do is wish you well
