

My Father's Arms

Jeremy Camp

My soul, run to the water
Lay down, lay down your burden, lay it down
My soul, lift up your head now
There is rest for the weary, peace is found
So sing my soul, sing

My Father's arms are wider than the sea
And I'm standing on the shores of majesty
No matter how far I run, I can never outrun His love
My Father's arms are holding me

Open, open the floodgates
Rain down, let Your kingdom come, let it come
And I will lift up my hands now
I'll sing, sing hallelujah, hallelujah
Sing my soul, sing

My Father's arms are wider than the sea
And I'm standing on the shores of majesty
No matter how far I run, I can never outrun His love
My Father's arms are holding me

Here, my fears are gone
Here, I'm safe from harm
There is nowhere else that I would rather be
Here, and only here

My Father's arms are wider than the sea
And I'm standing on the shores of majesty
My Father's arms are wider than the sea
And I'm standing on the shores of majesty
No matter how far I run, I can never outrun His love
No matter how far I run, I can never outrun His love
My Father's arms are holding me
Holding me
