

John

Jeris Johnson

I met a man as he walked on the edge of the sky
He gave me the keys to his castle and started to cry
He said, "All of these days that escaped
Have led me to you and now I'm suffocating
My last breath that I take I give to you"
Ooh, ah

"Just don't let me down
It's too late for me, but not for you
You will make me proud
It took more than I could ever do"

I stood alone with his words but without his goodbye
And I'll walk the path that he paved if it takes my whole life
I know all of the places I'll go
I'll never alone, but I'm always lonely
Feels like forever go, but I still hear you
Ooh, ah

"Just don't let me down
It's too late for me, but not for you
You will make me proud
It took more than I could ever do"

Ooh, ooh, ooh
Ooh, ooh, ooh

"Just don't let me down
It's too late for me, but not for you
You will make me proud
It took more than I could ever do"
