

Flashback

Jesse Labelle

Replaying that song that you'd sing along to under your breath
And I'd sing louder and you'd get red, slap my arm, say, "Leave me alone"

I'm staring at the dancefloor that you used to force me out on 'Cause I'd fight it at first but then give in, 'cause seeing yo u smile was all worth it

Now I'm doing whatever I gotta do
To put me somewhere still with you

In a flashback, back in my world
Back in my arms, still my girl, and
I got to kiss you when I got the chance
Now baby, all I have
Are flashbacks, but they don't last long
When I snap out, you're still gone, but
For a second I'm happy with where I'm at
Living in a flashback

Yeah, sometimes they come easy, sometimes I gotta drive by Some streets, your place, our spot, do something that'll just p ut my mind

In a flashback, back in my world
Back in my arms, still my girl, and
I got to kiss you when I got the chance
Now baby, all I have
Are flashbacks, but they don't last long
When I snap out, you're still gone, but
For a second I'm happy with where I'm at
Living in a flashback

Oh, I don't know what I'll do when they stop Because the only piece of her that I've still got

Is a flashback, back in her world
Back in my arms, still my girl, and
I got to kiss you when I got the chance
But now baby, all I have
Are flashbacks, but they don't last long
When I snap out, she's still gone, but
For a second I'm happy with where I'm at
Living in a flashback
Yeah, living in a flashback
