

Hey Rachel

Jesse Labelle

Hey Rachel, I hope you don't me getting carried away
But I wanna see tomorrow, and maybe again on the next day
I haven't smiled like this in a while, haven't felt this kind o f alive
So I'm putting all my cards on the table
Hey Rachel, this is how a heart is supposed to feel
I don't wanna be careful, I don't care if the coast is clear
I haven't fallen in some time, but you're showing me tonight th at I'm still able
Hey Rachel

I've been lost so long in this neon town
I drank so much that I almost drowned
Scared I'd settle just to settle down
And I never thought that I would say
I ever needed to be saved
But I swear to God that you must be an Angel
Hey Rachel

I heard it on the tape deck, a wise men said only fools rush in
But I know this feeling, Its one you can't help but fallin' in Now all my walls are breaking down, you've got them crumbling t o the ground
But it looks so graceful
Hey Rachel

I've been lost so long in this neon town
I drank so much that I almost drowned
Scared I'd settle just to settle down
And I never thought that I would say
I ever needed to be saved
But I swear to God that you must be an Angel
Hey Rachel

For the first time in a long time
I'm everything I want myself to be
And even if its just a moment I'm glad I get to hold it
For you I know that ill always be thankful
Hey Rachel

I got lost so long in this neon town
I drank so much that I almost drowned
Scared I'd settle just to settle down
And I never thought that I would say
I ever needed to be saved
But I swear to God that you must be an Angel
Hey Rachel, I hope you don't mind me getting carried away
