

Me

Jessica Andrews

I drove five, hundred, miles out, west to the coast
A new life, new place, just off the interstate
A lot less, a little more, not knowing what I'm looking for

I'm just trying to find

Me, beyond my reflection
Me, beneath my complexion
A little piece of my mind
A sweet side that brings out the devil in me
I feel like I finally feel alright
I know I've still got a whole lot to learn about
Me

I look back, it's so clear, it's what I had to go through to get here
A love lost, regrets, man I could sure use a cigarette
Livin' life, livin' large, I grabbed all the reins and I'm taking charge

Of me, beyond my reflection
Me, beneath my complexion
A little piece of my mind
A sweet side that brings out the devil in me
I feel like I finally feel alright
I know I've still got a whole lot to learn about
Me

Ooh me, beyond my reflection
Me, beneath my complexion
A little piece of my mind
A sweet side that brings out the devil in me
I feel like I finally feel alright
But I know I've still got a whole lot to learn about (I'm living life, I'm living large)
