

Deja Vu

Jessica Lowndes

Diamonds in the dark
Tears roll down my chin
You were JFK
I was Marilyn

Hot summer nights, crazy alibis
Sweet taste of your skin
Chocolate goodbyes after all the fights
You're my deadly sin
And I know I gotta turn the page and walk away
But I can't, there's something here that makes me wanna stay

Tell me, tell me, tell me
What am I supposed to do?
Help me, help me, help me
I'm having a deja vu
It feels like I've been here before
Hoping you walk through the door
My heart can't take no more
Help me, help me, help me
I'm having a deja vu

Tea at 5 pm
The bells of Big Ben
Never made it to the Seine
Of streets of Saint-Germain

Hot summer nights, crazy alibis
Sweet taste of your skin
Chocolate goodbyes after all the fights
You're my deadly sin
And I know I gotta turn the page and walk away

Tell me, tell me, tell me
What am I supposed to do?
Help me, help me, help me
I'm having a deja vu
It feels like I've been here before
Hoping you walk through the door
My heart can't take no more
Help me, help me, help me
I'm having a deja vu

I wait all day
I wait all night
Just breathe into me
And bring me back to life

It feels like I've been here before
Hoping you walk through the door
My heart can't take no more
Help me, help me, help me
I'm having a deja vu

Help me, help me, help me
I'm having a deja vu
Help me, help me, help me
I'm having a deja vu
