

Kintsugi

Jessica Lowndes

Breathe the air, you can't go back this time
It's okay now that everything's changing
If you're broken you don't have to hide
Who you are, you were born for this moment

Cause you got gold in your wings

Fire in your love
Patching up where your heart bled
Screaming in the air
While the clouds and the storm start to form overhead

Yeah I know it hurts sometimes
But the otherside of the broken heart is a brand new life
That'll wash away all the memories and the pain inside
One day when it all make sense on the other side
I wish I heard love you find someone right
And a second chance at the fairytale that you thought had died

Right time, right time, right time
Right time, right time, right time

You don't care, we both know that's a lie
But it's fine I know that you've been through it
And that essence, it feels an ocean wide
But the highest [?] worth choosing

Cause you got gold in your wings

Fire in your love
Patching up where your heart bled
Screaming in the air
While the clouds and the storm start to form overhead

Yeah I know it hurts sometimes
But the otherside of the broken heart is a brand new life
That'll wash away all the memories and the pain inside
One day when it all make sense on the other side
I wish I heard love you find someone right
And a second chance at the fairytale that you thought had died

Right time, right time, right time
Right time, right time, right time
Right time, right time, right time
Right time, right time, right time