

She Holds a Grudge

Jet

She holds a grudge
Like no other woman
I ever met before
Yeah there are some tears
Then after, it's like a million years
Well she comes around
But I can't tell
If she let herself be held

I gotta do something, sometimes

Once
In my life
I'm gonna say sorry
Before I die

When, I'm alone
Well I don't feel
I think too much
Well I don't know enough
No one's right all the time

I gotta do something, sometimes

Once
In my life
I'm gonna say sorry before I die
Baby I'm sorry
So sorry
I apologise

Babe when I hold you
Then you will know
You're my woman

Believe me it is the only way
Don't leave me hear what I say
Yeah carry me back home
Back home

For once
In my life
I'm sorry
I apologise
Babe please don't tell me
That all you see is black
No
And when I hold you
Then you will know
You're my woman