

Mid-Day Anonymous

Jets to Brazil

what will you do to turn this around so many behind you so many before you ticket in one hand gun in the other what will you do which hand will you use?

came on the run and you will leave running there's always someone to keep you from thinking loving her desperately knowing you're leaving what will you do now with no one to go to?

there are so many places to see there are so many people to be this country was promised to me from the start the kids. the park. the crosshairs find their mark. i think i'm the sum of what's before and what's to come a saint with a scope and a holster full of hope it depends it depends some stories never end but mine unwinds in seconds what will you do to save your own life drink yourself brilliant, make love to your image dad's on the left side, mom's on the right what will you do now to keep them divided?

eyes out the window the folly of humans mid-day anonymous when guns find their purpose end of the country the end of the century ending of everything the ending is everything there are so many people in me there are so many women to meet remember me to all the ones i have lost the glock is cocked. the sheep begin to drop i think i'm the son of what's before and what's to come a saint with a scope and a pocketful of dope seven stars! seven stars! the kingdom is ours the stairs the light the street the blue and whites deep in the flat with the technicolor cat and hey my varicose guilt!