

Magdalene

Jeymes Samuel

Magdalene
Like the diamond in your eyes
I can read between the lines you lay
Magdalene
I omitted what's inside
But I feared if I implied, you'd just fade out

By the time I call your name
You will no longer remain
By the time I call your name
You will no longer remain

Better by design
Lost inside your smile, I always fall
Can we walk a while?
Racing, I run to your beck and call
Let me watch you fly
Walking by your side
Watching as you fly
Talking at your side

Magdalene
Will you let me come alive?
For without you I will die in vain
Magdalene
You're the mountain I will climb
In your absence, every day is the same now

By the time I call your name
You will no longer remain
By the time I call your name
You will no longer remain

Read between the lines
Joy inside your smile, I always find
Try to read the signs
God, queen, I admire your grand design
Teach me how to fly
Running by your side
Waiting for your smile
Such a grand design

By the time I call your name
You will no longer remain
By the time I call your name
You will no longer remain

Magdalene
Like the diamond in your eyes
I can read between the lines you lay
Magdalene
I omitted what's inside

By the time I call your name
You will no longer remain
By the time I call your name

You will no longer remain

Teach me how to fly
