Before I Died

Jim Reeves

No need to say you're sorry No need to feel ashamed If I'm not the one you love Don't feel you're to blame.

I don't deny it hurts me And this pain is hard to hide But at least I lived a little while Before I died.

I lived long enough to know The sweet thrill of your lips I knew happiness Right down to my finger tips.

You'll always be a part of me Though you can't be mine At least I lived a little while Before I died.

Don't ask me to forget you 'Cause you mean too much to me I couldn't even if I tried Too many memories.

My yesterday's were happy days And each mem'ry's locked inside At least I lived a little while Before I died.

I lived long enough to know The sweet thrill of your lips I knew happiness Right down to my finger tips.

You'll always be a part of me And though you can't be mine At least I lived a little while Before I died...
