

Since I've Lost You

Jimmy Ruffin

What good are my eyes if I can no longer see
Your tender, tender smile?
What good are my lips if I can't kiss you, girl
Nope, not even once in a while
My life is so blue, girl, since I've lost you

I don't need my arms 'cause I know
That they will never hold you again
What good are my ears when they only hear
Bad gossip from our so-called friends
My life is so blue, girl, since I've lost you

I got down on my knees and I prayed, girl, for your return
But my prayers were never answered
So you see, my heart still yearns
My life is so blue, girl, since I've lost you
Oh, my life is so blue, so blue, so blue, 'cause I'm missing yo u
Girl, my life is so blue, girl, 'cause I need you
